On the following pages we would like to inform you about the possibilities to realize events, meetings, presentations etc. online, or partially online. The listed packages are intended to facilitate your entry into the world of virtual events.

First, we offer a so-called FLEX PAGE with Package 01. This special website can be individually designed and serves as a portal for invited participants to view a web stream (or a link to a video conference). Optionally, a chat, a voting function or other functions can be additionally integrated on this website.

The following is the simple variant of a web conference. The setup of Package 02 includes a powerful notebook and a flexible USB camera. This package is especially designed for smaller groups, but can also cover a larger group of participants if not every guest needs to be in focus.

Package 03 offers a live stream to an online portal that is aimed at a large number of participants. This involves recording your lectures, presentations or meetings at a selected location with images and sound and transmitting them to the World Wide Web. Our example is designed for 400 participants and includes the necessary software and hardware as well as the data volume to create the stream. Individually, many design options are open to you here - in terms of the website, but also in terms of the design of the premises in which the recording is made. Of course, the production of a recording is also offered. Interaction on the part of the viewers is only possible via chat with this setup.

We offer you a bidirectional connection in Package 04. Regardless of whether two rooms in the same building are linked or participants from all over the world want to communicate with each other (in word and image).

For all packages an internet connection on site is required. If this is not available, we are pleased to offer a mobile solution.
